Summary

I currently work as a laborer by day out in the yard at Menards. In recent years I quickly turned into a computer nerd at night when I wasn't working, hanging out with friends, or playing soccer. I am currently taking part in a night time boot camp to work towards a career in coding so I can land a job in web development or computer programming when I am finished. I decided to take this boot camp to expand my horizons trying something new, interesting, and challenging while also doing something that I knew I would love doing when I was done.
